REFLECTIONS

This yearbook is a collection of our reflections, memories and accomplishments from the last four years. The Class of 2001 has grown immensely from when we first entered Stoneham High School as freshmen.

We have made mistakes, but if we let them, they will help guide us on the road of life. We have had dreams, goals and aspirations. Some of them we have realized, others are works in progress. These four years have helped us lay the foundation for the rest of our lives.

We have changed, and hopefully, grown up, during these last four years with help from our friends, family and the S.H.S. faculty. As we reflect upon our experiences, we will take with us memories of the fun, the wins and the losses, the achievements, the work, the people and the lessons we learned at Stoneham High School.

Guys, that color goes great with your complexion!

Coach: "Come on, Jaime, get back to class."

Charlien and Denise show off their dazzling summer smiles.

Lee, showing us how it should be done.

Wake up, Izzy, it's picture time!

Now Jonathan, are you really that happy?

Steve, did we catch you at a bad time?

Come on Jason, give us a little smile, please?

Sean and Jen, two of a kind!

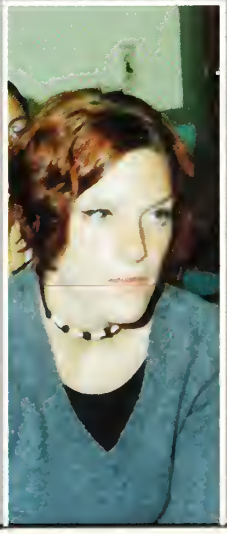
Don't get too close to me with that thing...

Mother always said if you kept that position you'd stick like that!

Pretty as a picture.

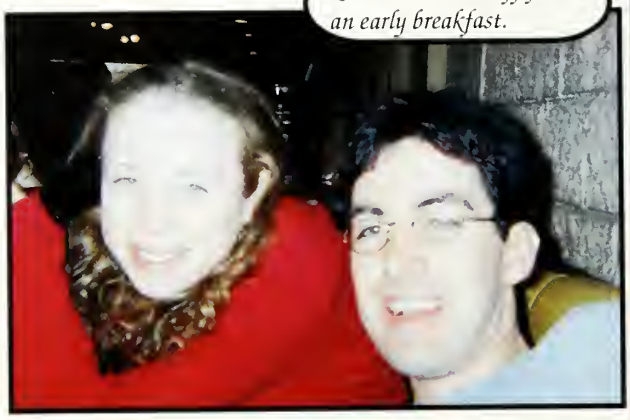
A little too early Ray?

How did I spend my summer vacation? Slaying sand dragons!



A stunned Ashley asks "Is it the first day of school already?"

Senior Collage



Katie and Dan -- off for an early breakfast.

Hey Mike! Pleasure to be back, isn't it?

Briana looks forward to a great senior year.

Katie -- definitely not camera shy!

Liz and Tory beat the odds...

Heather is ecstatic to be back.

Shannon, kick back -- only one more year.

Quick! Take the picture!

A little piece of paradise... in Stoneham...

Cindy: always enthusiastic about school work!

Peter is ready to listen to his final opening day assembly.

Elena's perfecting her supermodel pose.

We've graduated from tricycles to hot wheels!

Bryan's always smiling.

DEDICATION

Doctor Thomas L. Wilton

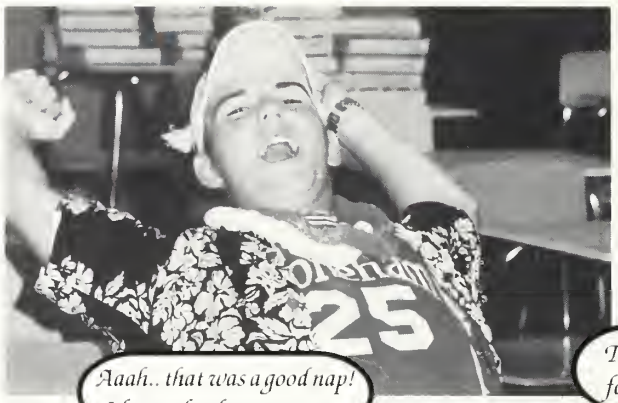
"What's up, Doc?," "Who's absent today?" can be heard throughout the halls as "Doc" Wilton makes his appearance before first period. Doctor Thomas Leroy Wilton, also known as "Doc "to many high school kids, has been a part of the Stoneham School system since the early 1960's.

Doc grew up in Boston and went to Somerville High School where he was very active in school activities and graduated with honors. He was accepted to Harvard University for his undergraduate degree but decided instead to attend Tufts University for reasons of financial assistance. He received two masters' degrees in History and Liberal Arts and received his doctorate from Boston University. Doc Wilton served in World War II and was honored for his courageous actions in battle.

Students whom Doc taught in Stoneham may remember him as a middle school teacher specializing in cultural history, but most of us know him as our favorite substitute teacher. Doc Wilton has been in our lives since we were in grade school. Almost everyone in the high school has a humorous story or mishap that concerns Doc.

The theme of this year's yearbook for the Class of 2001 is "Reflections." Looking at Doc Wilton, most of us can reflect on the great times we've had when Doc was the sub with his cool and calm classroom demeanor. Although he has only been a substitute teacher for most of us, he will always be a part of our reflections about school. For this reason, we, the Class of 2001, dedicate our yearbook to Doctor Thomas L. Wilton.

School Days

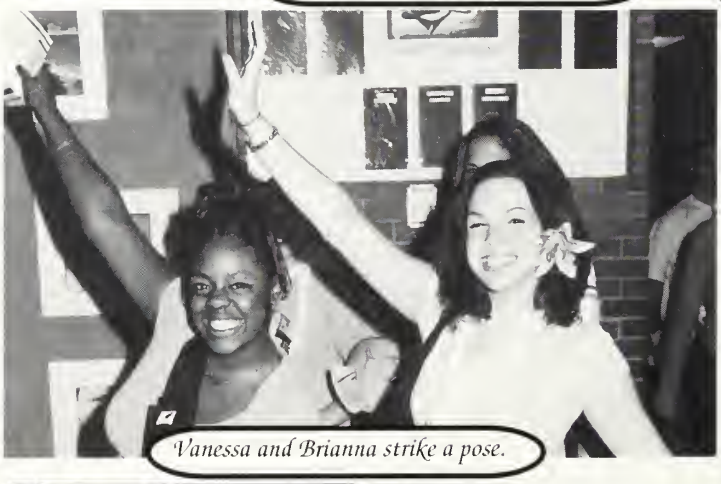


Aaah.. that was a good nap! I love school.

Tiff is all smiles and looking forward to her senior year.

The guys gather at China Moon.

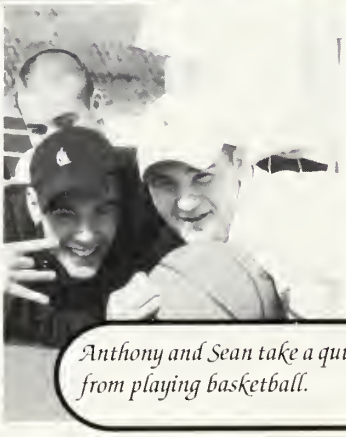
Brian puts on his serious face for the first day of school.



Vanessa and Brianna strike a pose.

Angelic Arianna strolls down the hall to class.

Steve considers a football play.



Anthony and Sean take a quick break from playing basketball.

First day of school meets Hawaii Five - O.

I love school! This smile is genuine.. . I swear!

Colin ponders, "What will my senior year be like?"

What's behind Taryn's devilish grin....?

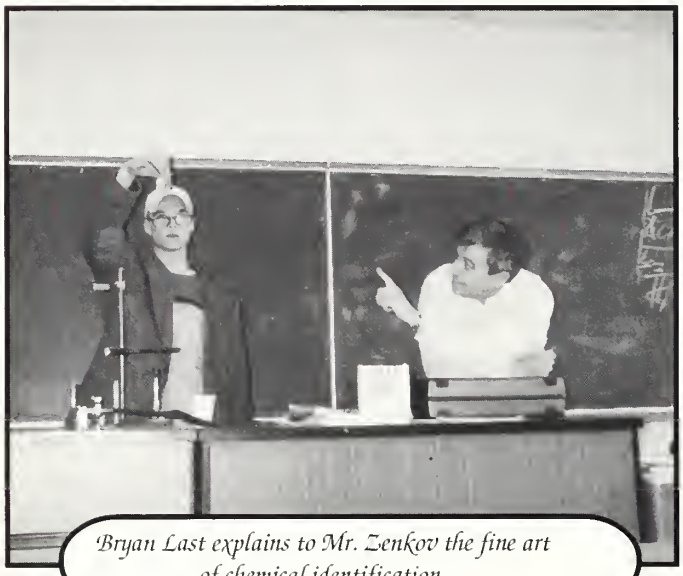
"Hey there, stranger. What's your name?"

Lauren models her hawaiian style.

Jon and Jason strut their stuff.

I'm so excited to be in school!

FACULTY



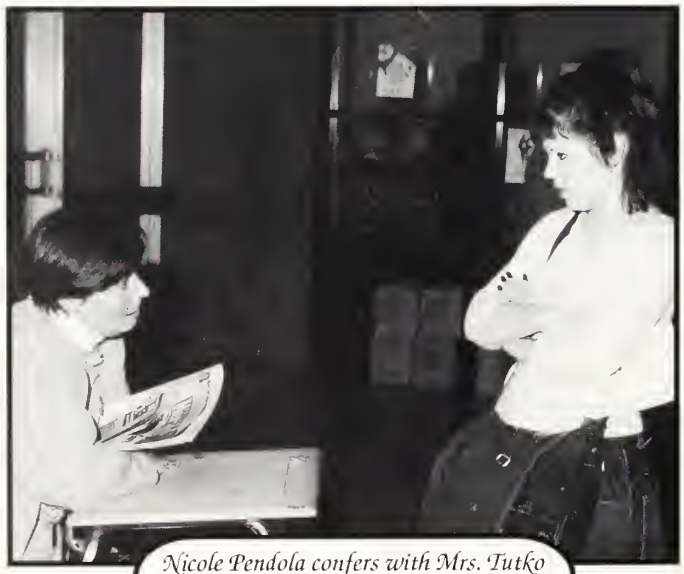
Bryan Last explains to Mr. Zenkov the fine art of chemical identification.

Christine Marhafer teaches Mr. Campagna how to party.

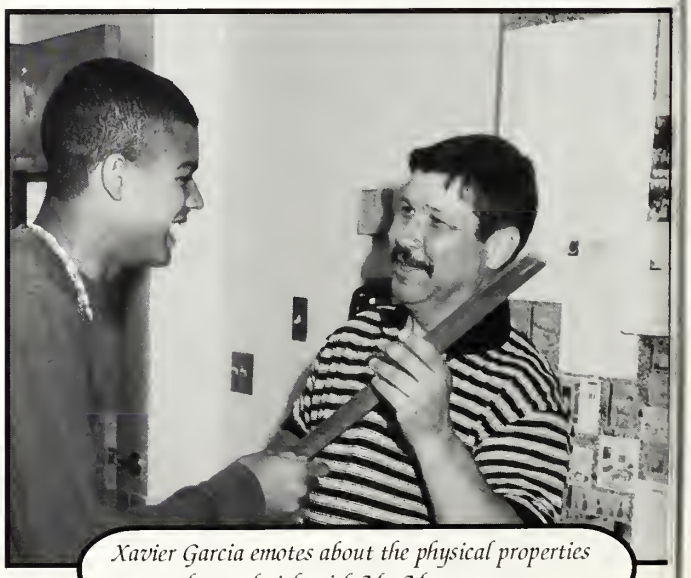
So, you thought we spent four long arduous (or not so arduous) years simply to be taught English, math, science, language - anything. The teachers have been at our disposal; they've worked solely for our benefit.

Well, we were wrong. In fact, a major aspect of school is that we are all able to learn from each other, teachers and students alike. Stoneham High School is no one-way mirror, but one that reflects all knowledge and experiences gained by its students as they move on into the world. But what would we have to shine forth, what depth would we have as people without the influence of the faculty? We teach them as much as they teach us, as the tables turn each day.

Expect the unexpected, and brilliantly reflect what this stellar staff has given us.



Nicole Pendola confers with Mrs. Tutko about the value of a hall pass.



Xavier Garcia emotes about the physical properties of a yardstick with Mr. Mongeau.

The faculty as reflected in their pictures from their high school and college days.

1. This college passion continues...

2. This teacher is a smart consumer -- he saves money on hair cuts!

3. Although in this picture he is building a wall, he has spent his career teaching students to break down the walls of ignorance.

4. The king of the prom gave his date an orchid, not a mineral.

5.6. Of these two avid teen skiers, one still skis every weekend while the other prefers reading a good book.

7. This teacher's current leaning is toward Great Britain, not Italy.

8. After posing for Teen Beat magazine in his younger years, this teacher currently models men's fashions in Administrator Quarterly.

9. How do you say "Quick take the picture" in ASL?

10. His legs still look good even after all that ice cream.

Turn that frown upside down, friend!

Katie has some sad news! Her knees are broken.

The ruby slippers. The emerald green city. The rainbow over poppies. The 2000 Spring Musical The Wizard of Oz, directed by Ms. Beth Zieff, was a vibrant show full of color, lights, bubbles and enthusiasm.

Graduated seniors Amanda Fitzgerald, Marcos Valles, Matthew McDonald, Christopher Mullins and Danielle Festino brilliantly portrayed the characters of Dorothy, Scarecrow, TinMan, Lion, and the Wicked Witch. Senior Liz Francis protected the little people of Munchkinland as Glinda the Good Witch and junior Dan Braganca took on the dual role of traveling fortune-teller and all-powerful Wizard.

Musically directed by Mr. Robert Lague, his small band created the huge atmosphere of suspense and wonder while the tornado raged against the farm of Auntie Ema nd Uncle Henry, played by junior Anne McDonnell and sophomore Josh Gondelman.

Other seniors who played multiple roles in the production were Katie Doherty, Jill Angelosanto, and Liza Blackman. Crew members were assistant director Liz Breen, Dan Blanchard, Lisa Tillotson, Alycia Burke and Tory Mata. They, along with the incredibly dedicated crew and cast, made The Wizard of Oz a truly wonderful and memorable production.

I told you! Left foot first, THEN right!

What, exactly, are you looking at, Dan?

REFLECTIONS

"Learning to roller blade was really fun, but I incurred many bruises."
--Liz Francis

"Just the fact that the cast had to walk on their knees made the entire experience worthwhile."
-- Liz Breen

"I fooled them all into thinking I could sing! It was a fabulous time, however."
-- Josh Gondelman

"Sometimes, on the late nights at Drama, it was hard to tell who was the real wicked witch. Just kidding!"
-- Lisa Tillotson

"It was a fantastic time...but I'd never do it again..."
-- Anne McDonnell

Sophomore singers.

Ray and Mike go for a "disco-swim".

Powerful freshmen Athenians.

Lisa and Christine are in the Halloween spirit.

Come on, Val, school isn't that bad.

Spiderman gets surrounded by the ladies.

Who says that Halloween is just for little kids? On October 31, 2000, the big kids at SHS got into the Halloween spirit. Fun filled the full hallways as camera flashes flared throughout the school. Costumes ranged from traditional Halloween, superheroes and musical artists, to literary and historical characters.

Seniors got first pick at their costume theme. Most liked the idea of dressing up as ghosts, witches, goblins, etc. for a traditional Halloween theme. However, a few reactionaries decided that they would go back with the old tradition of seniors dressing in pajamas. Juniors flew through the school in their superhero outfits. At the same time, the sophomores rocked the classrooms imitating their favorite musical artists. And, as always, the freshmen stunned their fellow high school students by decking out in costumes of historical or literary characters for their History and English classes.

Which grade accounted for the most costumes? Well, the senior ghosts and goblins scared away any chance of the honor going to them. The junior superheroes did not save the day with the most numbers. The sophomore music artists did not receive the fame and spotlight on them. But when the costumes were tallied, the freshmen history/literary characters booked the prominence for Halloween spirit.

Jill and Jeanette never give up the chance to dress for Halloween.

Jill grew horns overnight.

Jonathan flashes his attractive black teeth.

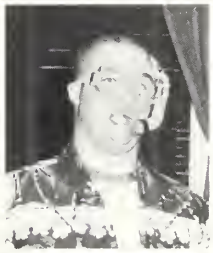
HALLOWEEN

REFLECTIONS



"Moran, we should've been Meatloaf."
--Andrew Shirkoff

"I had a great time being a leopard on Halloween until after school when I totalled my car. I lost all my spots standing in the rain while I said "bye-bye" to my car."
--Danielle Fortenbacher

"I would love to come to school every day in pajamas. The only thing that's missing is a bed."
--Arianna Gomez

"I always jump at the chance of wearing little kids costumes."
--Frank Woods

"Being dead doesn't make the average school day that much easier to deal with."
--Dan Blanchard

Joey and Amanda prepare for take-off.

Anthony, Xavier, and Joley break-dance their way into the drama club.

Understanding Montgomery comforts shy Doris on the first day of school.

"You all want fame, well fame costs. And right here is where you start paying!" This line will stay in the minds of the drama club members for quite some time. Both the cast and crew worked non-stop to hold the audience spellbound as they watch both the teachers and students of New York's famous School of the Performing Arts grow and mature over four years-from auditions to graduation. While Ms. Farrell (Stephanie Perez) taught her acting students (Josh Gondelman, Anne McDonnell, and Dan Braganca) to look within for the emotions they needed to portray and expose a bit of themselves. Music teacher Mrs. Shorofsky (Liz Breen) tried to show Toni Martelli (Liza Blackman) that music is more than a private pleasure and should be shared with the rest of the world. Ms. Berg (Courtney Boyd) taught her students (Amanda Hoffman, Joey Laiosa, and Katie Lacy) how much hard work and dedication success really requires, while Mrs. Sherwood (Liz Francis) impressed upon her students the importance of a good education to even the most talented students.

In no way, shape, or form, an average senior class play, directors Ms. Beth Zieff, Jill Angelosanto, and Kristen Lentz added music and dance numbers to the non-musical script to form what affectionately became known as a "semi-musical." The seemless performance would not have been possible without the hard work of the technical directors Dan Blanchard and Erin Molloy keeping the backstage as chaos free as possible and Stage Manager Yan Yan Yii making sure all the sound and light cues went off perfectly. Overall, Fame proved to be another great drama club production.

Ralph thinks he has what it takes to make it, but Mrs. Sherwood isn't so sure.

Mrs. Shorofsky and Toni Martelli don't see eye to eye when it comes to music.

Ally gives her all to this spectacular performance of "Fame"

FAME

REFLECTIONS

"Although it was a stretch to play a strict, stern character, Fame, (the musical -- non-musical) showed a side of me that most people don't usually see."
-- Liz Francis

"I will always remember singing on an open mike: 'This one's for you Dan!: 'You're too good to be true; can't take my eyes off of you.' No one knew who I was singing to."
--Christine Marhafer

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times. Well, maybe not so much of the latter."
--Liz Breen

"Fame, as an ensemble piece, gave each of us the opportunity to contribute equally....and I couldn't have been any prouder of you all."
--Dan Blanchard

"You would think that after spending more time with the drama club than with my own family, I would be sick of them. Truthfully, the hardest part of drama is becoming a family, than splitting up."
--Liza Blackman

WINTER CONCERT

REFLECTIONS

The Winter Concert gave the Fine Arts Department a chance to show off its stuff. The Band, Chorale, Chamber Chorus, and Jazz Ensemble delighted audiences with their wonderful performances. The night began with the Jazz Ensemble, under the direction of Mr. Edmund Grammer. The group tested their improvisational skills through all of their five pieces: On Green Dolphin Street, Impressions, Crib Chimp, Sugar, and Black Nile.

Next, the Chamber Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Robert Lague, took center stage. Accompanied by Mr. Rick Scalise on the piano, this all girl group performed three very different pieces, Stopping By Woods on a Snowy Evening; Reuben, Reuben; and For the Beauty of the Earth, which emphasized their beautiful harmonies and witty charm.

After a short intermission, the Concert Band took over. Also led by Mr. Grammer, the Band's first piece, First Suite in Eb (the first three movements) was a showcase piece that the Band will continue to work on and perform again at the Spring Pop's Concert to show their progress as a group. They then performed A Scottish Carol and Rhapsody on an Old English Sea Song.

Finally it was the Chorale's turn to shine. Also under the direction of Mr. Robert Lague with accompanist Mr. Scalise and student pianist Grace Kim, the Chorale began their portion of the show with a section from Vivaldi's Gloria, quickly followed with a solo by Yan Yan Yii. The Chorale went on to sing six other pieces: I Know a Young Maiden Wonderous Fair, Hine Ma Tov, highlights from "A Chorus Line", All that Jazz from "Chicago", and Gartan Mother's Lullaby, which also featured Elizabeth Francis on the flute.

The horn section is kept alive with the help of Mike Mondello and Danny Pecci.

Yan Yan Yii eloquently sings a Vivaldi Gloria solo.

Jon's so good he doesn't need to concentrate.

"I really liked playing the piano during the Gloria piece."
- Grace Kim

"I got to be the cornucopia."
- Chris Vasques

"I thought we sounded quite harmonious."
- Jessica DiPietro

"I liked being in Chamber Chorus. We got to know each other a lot better."
- Michelle Lunetta

"I hated standing all alone on stage!"
- Taryn Griswold

Senior Dan Norton watches carefully as his NHS emblem is pinned on.

Eliza Gregory tries to keep the flame from Liz Breen's hair.

Xavier enthusiastically introduces Honor Address speaker, Mr. Fillback.

Jeannette Grossheim is inducted.

Katie gives her speech emphasizing the importance of scholarship.

Liz Breen lights the candle of Character.

The qualities of scholarship, leadership, service and character shone clearly in the eyes of the new group of National Honor Society members, inducted February 12, 2001.

In the candle-lit ceremony, officers Katie Doherty, Dan Blanchard, Elizabeth Francis and Elizabeth Breen each gave speeches commending the new inductees on their possession of those traits. Honor address speaker Mr. Wayne Fillback, with a light-hearted but serious speech, encouraged the 33 juniors and four seniors to reach for every goal and to appreciate every gift they receive. The annual Honorary Membership award was given to veteran teacher, Ms. Vera Komanowski, for her years of commitment to Stoneham High School and her talent for teaching.

As President, Katie Doherty read the names of the inductees while each lit a candle and recited the oath of the National Honor Society, promising to uphold its high morals and principles.

It has always been a respected and honored privilege to be named to the NHS. Stoneham High School once again recognized several deserving students for their exemplary academic achievements.

Anna gives Ms. Komanowski the Honorary Membership award.

Dan Blanchard speaks about the makings of a leader in society.

Liz Francis points out many acts of service SHS students have carried out.

The 1961 half of the cast mourns the death of Grace Mansfield.

The 1986 half of the cast mourns the death of Elizabeth Mansfield Simons.

Tyson Mansfield (Joe Laiosa) leads the audience through the memories of his family.

Senior members of the cast and crew are all smiles for their final festival.

During the month of March, the Stoneham High School Drama Club participated in the 70th Annual Massachusetts High School Drama Festival. Their competition piece, Mirrors by Jerome McDonough, was a great success! For the first time in 12 years, under veteran director Ms. Beth Zieff, the drama club advanced all the way to the State Finals! Being only the third time in all of Stoneham's history to ever advance this far, the cast and crew were beyond excited.

Mirrors portrays three generations of women in one family who must cope with the death of a loved one by celebrating the beauty of life. In this play, Amber Simons (Anne McDonnell) deals with the death of her mother in 1984. Simultaneously on the other side of the stage in 1961, Elizabeth Mansfield Simons (Elizabeth Francis) deals with the death of her mother, Grace Mansfield (Elizabeth Breen). Life is cherished through the touching stories of both family and friends of each generation.

In addition to the talented cast, the crew helped to make the play the great success that it turned out to be. While Technical Directors Dan Blanchard and Erin Molloy perfected their set, Ms. Beth Zieff and her Assistant Director Jill Angelosanto perfected the cast's most challenging acting techniques. Congratulations to the cast and crew!!

Grace scolds her daughter Elizabeth for climbing a tree in her Sunday dress.

Amber gets by with a help from a friend.

DramaFest

REFLECTIONS

"I enjoyed continuing my role as assistant director for the festival play. Although it was hard work, we still managed to have fun."
- Jill Angelosanto

"I was very excited to participate in my first drama festival and, to add to the excitement, I won an all star award for props!"
- Christine Marhafer

"Being Assistant Technical Director was a great experience--a lot of work, but fun too."
- P. J. Ward

"It was a long, tough day, but putting on such a great show made all our hard work really worth it. That, and the free dance party."
- Tory Mata

"I really enjoyed having such a powerful monologue that really touched everyone. DramaFest was one of my most memorable and touching moments."
- Katie Lacy

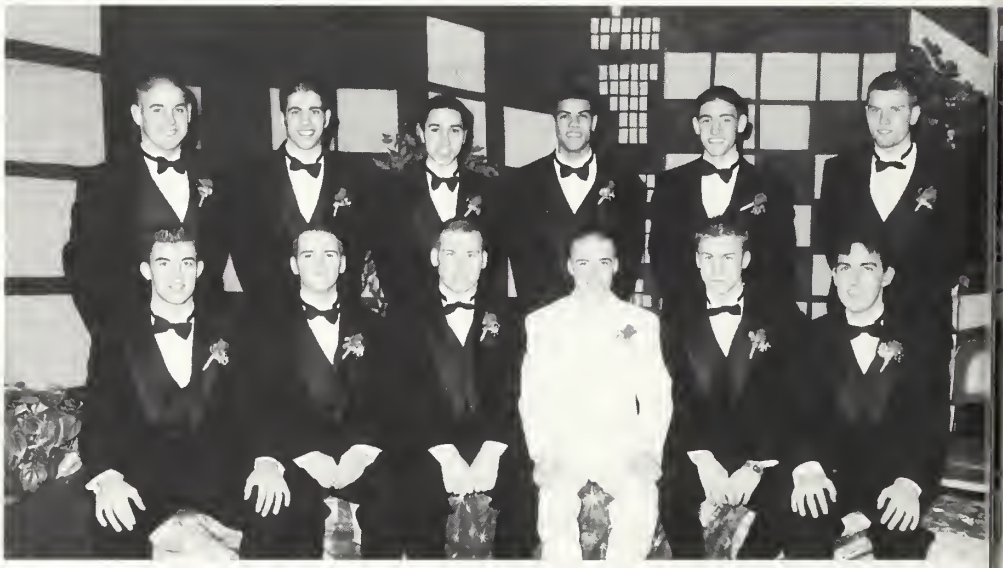
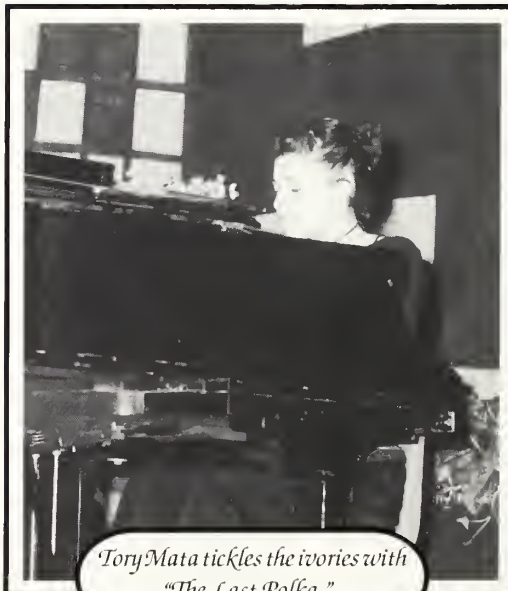
Attendents:
Front Row:
Megan Bradford, Lauren Izzicupo, Queen Jenna Vatcher, Jessica Figelski, Anna Maria Martignetti, Karly Jefferson.
Second Row:
Rachel Staub, Stephanie O'Keefe, Patricia Pino, Liza Blackman, Marielle Christofi, Shannon Stockbridge.

Ushers:
Front Row:
Anthony Caracciolo, Francis Woods, Michael Moran, King Bryan Last, Raymond Powers, Daniel Blanchard
Second Row:
Stephen Aprile, Jesse Fulton, Christopher Cummings, Xavier Garcia, Michael Semenza, Brian Molloy



Freshman Matt Reopell warbles the "LunchLady Land" tune.



Tory Mata tickles the ivories with "The Last Polka."

Katie Lacy "Brings In Da Noise."

"Live! From Stoneham! It's Saturday Night!" From the moment Mr. Ryan proclaimed it so, the 72nd Carnival Ball proceeded to successfully mimic the popular midnight comedy television show, Saturday Night Live. After King Bryan Last, Queen Jenna Vatcher, and the Royal Court waltzed to Mariah Carey's "You Can't Take That Away," the show continued to bring pure entertainment to its audience and television viewers.

The elegant Mistresses of Ceremonies, Meghan Coughlin and Noel Tashjian, lit up the stage with their clever and witty "SNL" skits, ably assisted by the amusing Josh Gondelman and the multi-talented Joley Ibidapo. Memorable characters from the twenty-plus years of SNL appeared in the four class acts with varying comedic results. Of course, the seniors led the way with their musical retrospective featuring Puff Daddy, the B-52s, Eminem, Elton John and many others. Special musical appearances were made by Victoria Mata, Marlena Fecho, Den6, and Elizabeth Francis. Performing dance routines this year were Shannon Sullivan, Katie Lacy, Farrell Boghos, Allison Casella, Laura Doyle, Lina Haddad, Amanda Hoffman, Susan Kelleher, Andrea Corapi and Rachel Staub.

As the first Carnival Ball of the new millenium, it clearly was a superior show with almost half of the student body participating either on stage or behind the scenes.

Queen Jenna Vatcher and King Bryan Last preside over the 72nd Carnival Ball.

Eric Blackman concentrates as the Concert Band performs "Shaft."

Mr. Friel, as portrayed by Kevin Russell, regales the audience with tall tales.

CARNIVAL BALL

REFLECTIONS

"Being part of the court and dancing with Andrea are just a few of the memories I will take with me. I want to thank my class for allowing me to be a class officer during our 4 years here. I know this Carnival Ball is one I will never forget."
- Rachel Staub

"Carnival Ball was a very fun experience and something that I looked forward to every March. When it came around this year I think that I had mixed emotions, but there was no question about the way I felt after it was all over -- HAPPY!
- Noel Tashjian

"Being a class officer almost all of my high school career, it was partly my responsibility to take part in Carnival Ball. And, I know I would have participated no matter what! One of my favorite memories besides the class acts is dancing with Rachel."
- Andrea Corapi

"I have been involved with Carnival Ball since freshman year, but this year I decided to try out for MC and tackle it head-on. The theme was SNL and it was a great choice! Although it was hard work, Noel and I were the best MC's in the world!"
- Meghan Coughlin

"The interdependence between fish (bass) and fruit (Mango) was indubitably loathsome."
- Chaci Ciano

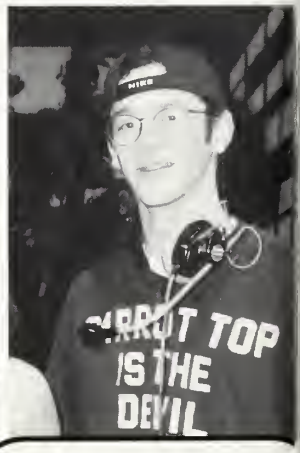
REFLECTIONS

The Mistresses of Ceremonies, Meghan Coughlin and Noel Tashjian, set a new record for costume changes.

Seniors Eliza Gregory and Lindsay Boone sing the Bangles' "Heaven Is A Place On Earth."

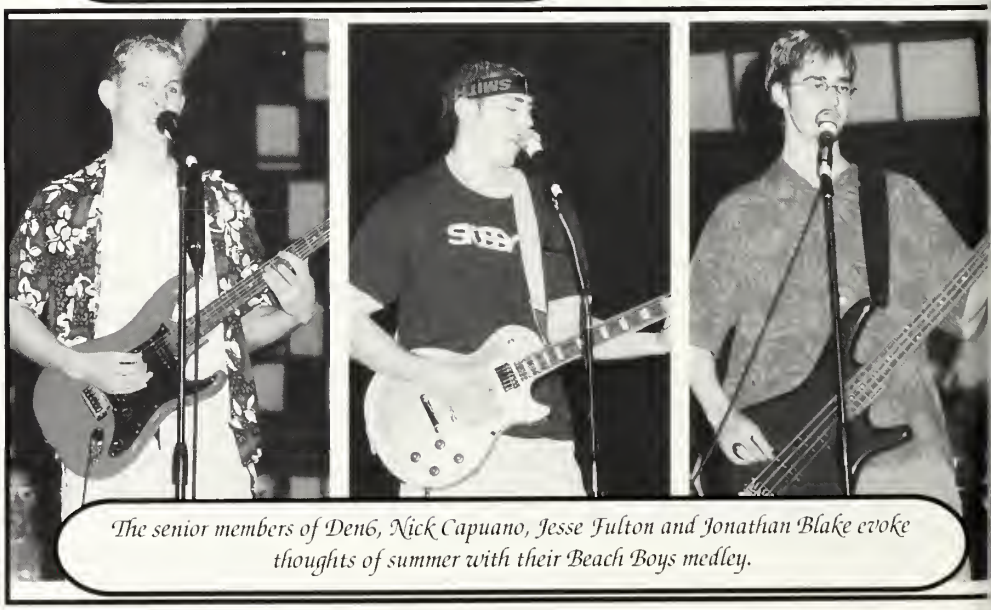
Liz Francis shows her strong voice and wide range on "Rapunzel."

The "SNL Cheerleaders" Noel, Foley and Meghan cheer for the seniors while insulting the juniors.



Local funnyman, Josh Gondelman brought down the house with his "Carnival Ball Anthem" a la Adam Sandler.

Marlena Fecho performs a soulful "Reflections."



The senior members of Den6, Nick Capuano, Jesse Fulton and Jonathan Blake evoke thoughts of summer with their Beach Boys medley.

Senior Shannon Sullivan shows perfect form during her solo, "I Want To Be With You."

Mike Moran, Bryan Last, Frank Woods and Colin O'Hearn mimic Queen.

The Spartan Chorale raises the tempo with "All That Jazz."

Michelle Dailey rocks the house as Tina Turner.

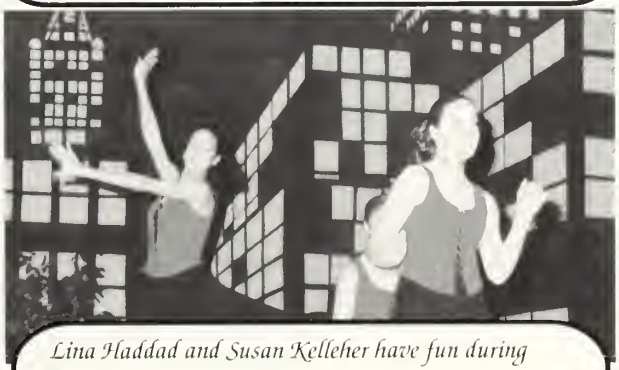
Dan Braganza and Liz Breen encourage Chaci Ciano to try the Bass-O-Matic...and he does! (Much to the dismay of the audience!)



Lina Haddad and Susan Kelleher have fun during "Let's Get Loud."

FIELD HOCKEY

CAPTAINS' WORDS

S

"Together we stand, divided we fall. Believers are winners and winners take all."

Nothing could better describe the 2000 Field Hockey team. In the past years we had only won 1 or 2 games per season. This year we were determined to change that. We worked hard and together we learned, improved, and grew as a team. We believed in ourselves and set out to prove to everyone else what we already knew -- we are a good team. With this drive and determination, we had a very successful season, making it to the second round of the state tournament. (A goal that hadn't been reached in 8 years!)

We couldn't have made it this far without each and every member of this team. Everyone was vital to the team's success and contributed in their own way. We are not only classmates, teammates and friends,but we are a family. We want to thank all of you for an unforgettable season and memories that will last a lifetime. We love you all and will miss you so much!

GOLF

S

The Stoneham High Golf Team was full of fun, hard work and success. There was a wide range of players from freshmen to seniors. The team was led by co-captains Ray Powers and Mike Armstrong. Also, senior Colin O'Hearn showed he could contribute to the team. Juniors Chris Serrano, Dave Corbett and Pat Finn stepped up and got critical points when the team needed them. The promising young talent of sophomores Mike Powers, Paul Jamieson, Joe Leo, Joe Corindia, Joe DiSanto and Jonathan Garcia were a big part of the team's success. Freshman Brandon Noke also came through with a few big points. The team qualified for the state tournament for the third year in a row finishing 5-6. The states were held at Thompson Country Club. We missed making it to the third round by only a few strokes. Overall it was a great year. Thanks to Coach Seabury for another successful year. We wish all future teams good luck.

VOLLEYBALL

S

Our season began with a rough and challenging start. We were, unfortunately, rotating from the Middle School to South School. Because our home gym was being renovated, we found it difficult to prepare our players for the rigorous season to come.

The team consisted of seniors Kelly McMenimen and Jen Sicari, and juniors Lauren Chauncy and Maria Capuano. Sophomores rounded out the team: Kristen Lunetta, Corinna Jay, Lauren Aprile, Stephanie DeHetre, Deandra Ramos, and Sarah Boulay. We had a young team.

Our final record was 6-12. We had a rebuilding year. Next year the team is going to be great. It was a fun season. We had many pasta and pizza parties.

The whole team was in good spirits and enjoyed the season.

GIRLS' CROSS-COUNTRY

S

Cross-country is a challenging sport that requires a huge amount of hard work and determination. That is why I have respect for all the girls who came out and ran this year. Although our season was not as successful as we had wished, with a record of 2 and 7, everyone continued to stay focused, have a positive attitude, and show improvement. We all remained dedicated even during the long workouts, intervals in the woods, and the "Friendly Four." We were able to become so close and establish great friendships. It's going to be difficult leaving the team. We are going to miss you and we wish you luck in all your years to come.

BOYS' CROSS COUNTRY

S

Success again. Stoneham's Cross-Country program has been strong for many years and this year the team was able to be a part of the program's long-term success. Although we lost four out of the five top runners from last year's team, we were able to cultivate a strong group of determined individuals. Whether we were battling up Orris Street at practice, or we were pushing up Billy Goat in a meet, each team member worked to their fullest capability. The team also displayed an undying sense of unity, as each member encouraged one another to run each race to the very last mile.

The team's diligence and desire to succeed were fully displayed in the battle against Reading, a long time rival. Every place counted and each member of the team pulled through to gain Stoneham a victory by one key point. Chris Cummings, Dave Tammaro, and Tim Judge were named Middlesex League All Stars. The Cross-Country winning tradition will live on as future teams "ride the horse" to victory.

They may be underclassmen, but they are key runners to the team.

FALL CHEERLEADING

S

The Fall Cheerleading season went very well for the Spartans. Cheerleading captains, Lauren Shapiro and Lauren Mosher, worked hard to form a close group of girls who never gave up. The team worked great together with lifting, dancing, and stunting. Cheering for the football and soccer boys all year gave the team spirit and confidence.

After having the annual Cheerleading Exhibition at Stoneham High, the girls knew they could pull anything off. Coach DiLisio guided the girls in creating a wonderful team of cheerleaders and friends. Overall, the year went smoothly with lots of pep and smiles.

Hard work and determination not only create character in a team, but bring record breaking success. With this said, the 2000 varsity soccer team's 14-4-3 record is no surprise to anyone. After long hours of conditioning during the hot summer, we arrived at double sessions at the top of our game. From there we tore up the Middlesex League finishing in 2nd place, 6th in Division II North, 16th in the Boston Globe's Top 20, and landed ourselves a home tournament game. After advancing to the state semi-finals, our season suddenly came to a close. Leaving our mark, this team had the best record ever at SHS, with the first ever home tornament game, the first ever tournament win, and the first appearance in the semi-finals. Throughout the blood, sweat and tears, the 2000 vasity soccer team is going down in the history books.

GIRLS' SOCCER

S

Going into this season, the girls' varsity soccer team had some high expectations to follow. We were labeled as a great skilled team who could definitely go places. However, luck just wasn't going our way. If only our record was based upon our heart and determination, our season would have ended 18-0. We proved our true strength and ability when we tied Lexington 1-1, and held on to the Winchester game, losing only 1-0. Although these games didn't improve our standings they improved our ability to work as a team.

By this point, we were not only coming together on the field, but we were coming together as a group of friends. Between the "camp outs," pasta parties, toilet papering, "encounters with the law", and our pumpkin collecting, we made some memories we will never forget. You girls have taught and given us so much to remember, that this team won't be easy to walk away from. Good Luck with everything in the future, we'll miss you.

Never forget who let the dogs out!!! RUFF! RUFF!

BOYS' TRACK

CAPTAINS' WORDS

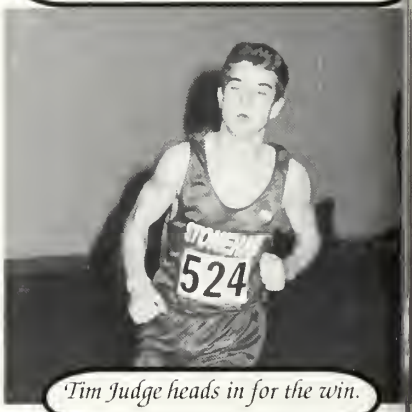
Strength, stamina, and determination guided the Indoor Track Team towards its 6-3 winning season. Injuries and illnesses, however, plagued the team early on, haunting the Spartans in their quest to become leeague, state, and relay champs. The defending champions led by "The X-man", "Jesse the Body", and "Axle Foley", became a force not t o be reckoned with in a competitive Middlesex League. The senior squad consisting of Tammaro, Cummings, N. Capuano, F. Capuano, DellaGatta, and Meng improved and set examples for the young Spartans to look up to.

Matt Gallagher hopes to outthrow the other team on the shotput.



Tim Judge heads in for the win.

Jeff Brunini is anxious to finish his event and win the meet.

GIRLS' TRACK

S

The girls winter track team finished the season with a disappointing 2-7 record. However, these numbers do not show the amount of effort and commitment the team gave. Leading the group were seniors Taryn Griswald, Caitlin Herlihy, Joanna Fowler, Marielle Christofi, and Eliza Gregory.

Everyone on the team always ran to their potential and never gave up. This was proved when two of our 5 losses came down to the relay. It's a hard way to end a meet, but we'd always walk away in high spirits.

Those bus rides home would cheer all of us up. Along with the singing, the candy, the cell phone calls, and attempts to annoy Mr. Powers, the friends we made and memories we shared will never be forgotten. Good luck to next year's team. Keep the track traditions alive.

Kristen D'Orsi strides to make the finish line.

With no one in front of her, Lisa Festino rounds the bend in the lead.

Carolyn Yeshulas, Sara Gagnon and Melissa Falzone get ready to run.

Captains Caitlin Herlihy and Marielle Christofi with Coach Rocher, Coach DiLisio and Coach Fiore.

Easier said than done, Taryn Griswald throws the shotput with ease.

HOCKEY

S

For the 2000-2001 Varsity Ice Hockey Team, success was measured in much more than just the number of wins achieved. As Coach Bob Carr says, "Hockey is a simple game, but it isn't easy." The game of hockey has no X's and O's making it simple to understand. Very demanding, the hard work and determination each individual puts forth makes the physical aspect of the game difficult. With great leadership and years of experience, the senior class led their final campaign in the Middlesex League resulting in a 6-10-4 record. Falling short of the state tournament by a mere 4 points, Seniors Bryan Last, Allen Mason, Anthony DiRe, Matt Mayo, Steve Galuna, Colin O'Hearn, Andrew Shirkoff, Ray Powers, John Mitchell, and Andrew Comita were left with one of the most successful seasons throughout their four years, leaving a positive impact upon the future of Stoneham High hockey.

GYMNASTICS

S

Shin splints, bruises, rips, and out with the flu. We've all been there. This season was a little rough, but as gymnasts we all pulled it off. With seven returning gymnasts and a total of nine newcomers, we worked together by making new floor routines and learning new moves. We did well this year with our personal best of 117.4. We're sure next year will be just as fun. Keep it up and we'll miss you all.

Young fresh faces, Jill and Stephanie, bring a lot of talent to the SHS team.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

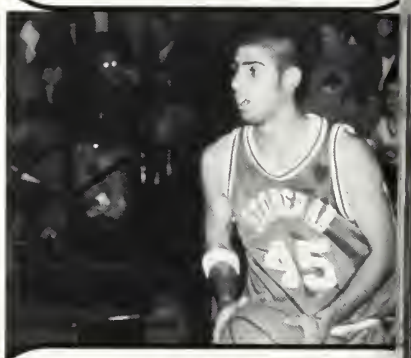
S

The 2000-2001 basketball team finished the season with a record of 7-13 which was a big turnaround from the past couple of years. This year's team was led by Captain Steve Aprile and seniors Brian Molloy, Mike Semenza, Frank Woods, Dan Gobron, and Anthony Caracciolo. We were a very hardworking and determined team, but we also had our share of fun which kept our spirits up and enabled us to play our best with pride and enthusiasm. We wish the best of luck to next year's team.

Look out, Frank! Peter is throwing a T-shirt at you!



Under pressure, John Sabbagh looks for a open teammate to pass to.

Front Row:

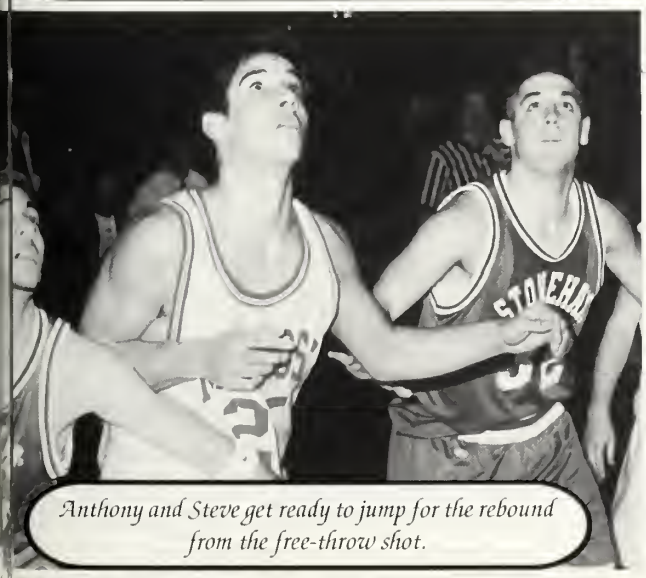
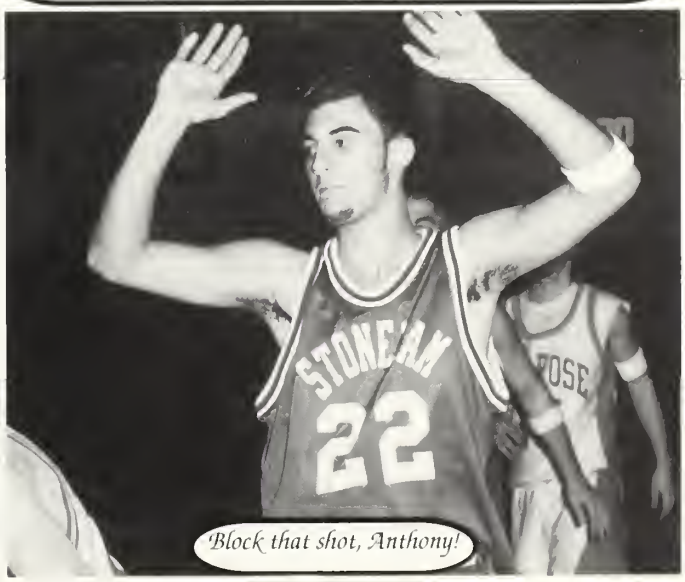
Michael Semenza searches down the court for a teammate.



Anthony and Steve get ready to jump for the rebound from the free-throw shot.



Block that shot, Anthony!

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

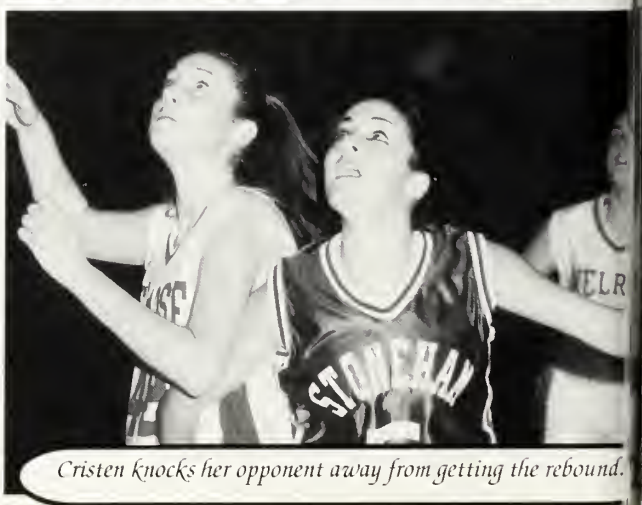
S

After finishing 5-14, some may think our season wasn't that successful. However, we played 110% every game knowing we had given it our all. When we played at home against Woburn, we knew it was going to be one of the hardest games on our schedule. Woburn is ranked among the top 20 girls' basketball teams in the state. Even thoughthe game ended in a loss for us, it was the best game we played this season and we considered it a win. On and off the court we became a group of close friends. Going out to eat, having pasta parties, and even toilet papering Coach's old house, made this a season we'll never forget. We wish the best of luck to the girls' basketball team next year. Ruff Ruff!

Rachel leaps into the air to score another two points for Stoneham.

Front Row:
Hilary Puglia, Rachael Staub
Second Row:
Karen Fiore, Erica Fiorentino, Danielle Fortenbacher, Kerry Goddard, Coach Phelan, Cristen Termine, Christina McCarthy, Nicole Merek, Sara Smith.

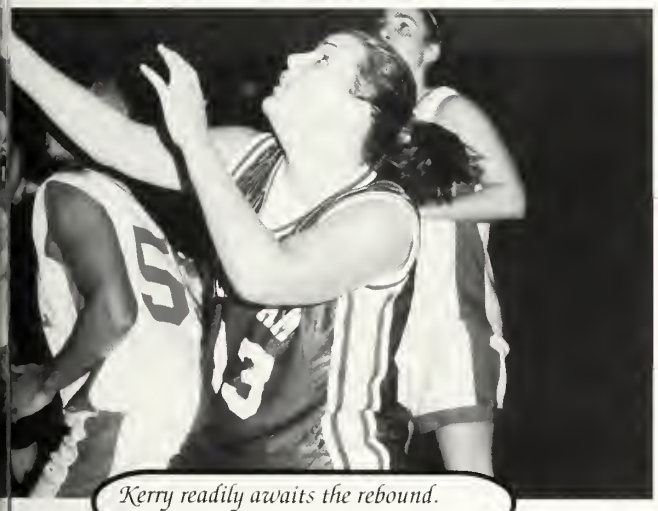
The team plans their strategy before the game begins.



Cristen knocks her opponent away from getting the rebound.

Captains Hilary Puglia and Rachel Staub with Coach Phelan.

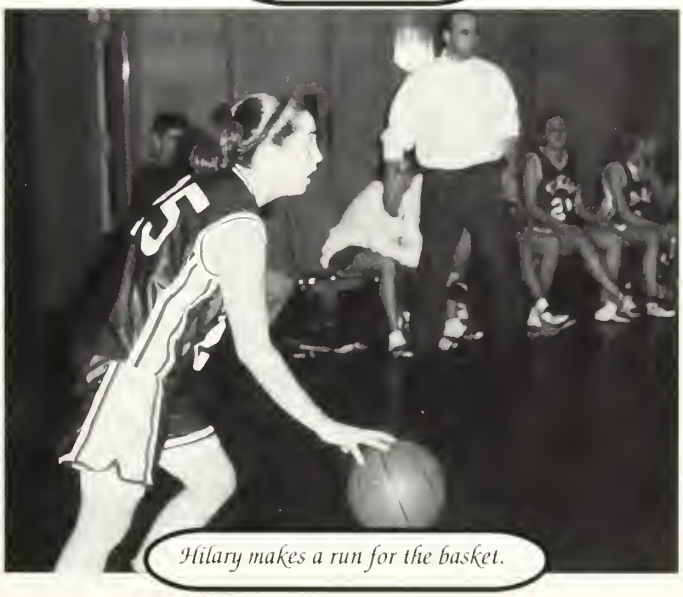
Nicole weaves her way toward the basket.



Kerry readily awaits the rebound.

It's up. Is it good?

Danielle successfully maneuvers through the Melrose defense.



Hilary makes a run for the basket.

WINTER CHEERLEADING

S

With each new season, a team is faced with many obstacles to overcome: inducting new freshmen, instilling unity and trust among the team and captains, and gaining respect. With only two new freshmen that had previously been cheerleaders, we had a great foundation for an experienced team. The chemistry worked to our advantage, allowing us to accomplish many of our goals.

It was crucial for the winter team to demonstrate a clean and succinct performance while having fun. The strong team unity encouraged us to creatively make up numerous original routines including dances, cheers, and lifts.

As captains, we were very pleased with the respect the members of our team expressed toward each other.

Our team supported each other and trusted each other to perform well in routines, especially lifts. The winter team traveled to support away games and worked hard at practices. Winter Cheerleading during the 2000-2001 winter season was fun, enthusiastic, and successful.

Memories

Before our last soccer game of the season, some of my fellow teammates and I decorated our soccer bench with pumpkins. The pumpkins spelled out "Go Stoneham." After we beat Reading the next day, Reading stole our pumpkins to decorate their own courtyard at 3:30 in the morning. We decided to go to Reading that very morning at 4:00 to get them back. Not only did we get our pumpkins back, but we also took one of their lawn ornaments, who they like to call Shadow Man! Who let the doggs out now, Reading?

-- Marielle Christofi

While looking back over my past 4 years in High School, brainstorming what to write for my yearbook memory, it seemed most appropriate to have that memory be of yearbook camp - that one fateful weekend where Christine Marhafer, Patty Pino, Val D'Alelio, and I spent our time. Aside from driving a little over an hour and a half in the wrong direction trying to get there, and having a random encounter with random men on tractors, the weekend was great. Upon our arrival we were directed to our suite at Bryant College in Providence, RI. From the way the building was constructed, when you looked out the window you saw the second floor roof right below us. It seemed that this was used as a makeshift "balcony" by some past students. Once we realized we could enter through Val's window we ventured into the unknown - onto the "balcony." Our venture took a turn for the worse. While Christine and Val were sitting on a ledge, Patty and I walked around the roof. As we turned the corner we were greeted with this overwhelming buzzing sound. We saw a gigantic nest with what seemed like millions (more like a few...) of "killer" bees buzzing around. Patty and I ran for our lives and warned Christine and Val to seek shelter inside. As the bees started buzzing around our heads, threatening our very lives, we realized that Val was very much allergic to bees. Scenes from My Girl were darting through our minds. Finally, our santuary in sight, we sprinted to safety. We cleared the window and landed on Val's bed below. The last one to the window was Val. Watching her hurdle the window-ledge, I saw part of her pants get caught. At that very moment, Val came crashing down onto the edge of the window thus leaving a massive scar on her shin. She finally fell into the room and landed on the bed below. We all laughed hysterically. Of course, Val didn't seem to think that was so funny.

Time: 7 AM

Place: China Moon Parking Lot.

It's the first day of school and I have arranged for all seniors to meet in the China Moon parking lot dressed in as much Hawaiian clothing as possible. It turns out a good number of the senior class showed up. Every group of seniors was represented. The clock strikes 7:10 and picture time and social time is over. Foley yells "mount up" as everyone gets into their cars. Our mission begins. I jump in my car with Foley sitting in shotgun and we start the procession to the infamous Stoneham High School. With horns blaring, the seniors of 2001 united to form a train of over 30 cars. Everything was going fine until we reached the dreadful Franklin Street. I realized that there was no way all of us were going to get in at the same time. I decided to take matters into my own hands. With a little help from my partner in crime, Andrew Shirkoff, I pulled out horizontally in one lane of traffic and put my Cutlass Supreme in park while Shirkoff did the same with the other lane. The rest of the seniors knew what to do and continued on the path to Stoneham High. Some people laughed while others used their own form of sign language to express their feelings. When we got to the High School we regrouped and took our first senior lap around the hallways only to meet the intimidating Mr. Campagna. This was the beginning of the best senior year ever.

-- Michael Moran

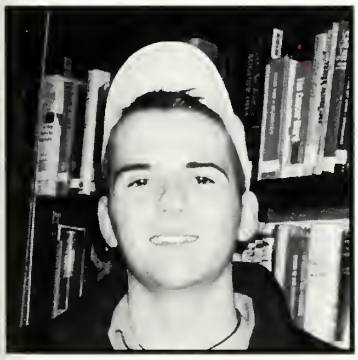
One single moment at Stoneham High School to reflect upon is difficult. Yet one day in particular stands out as one that I will always look back at and laugh and smile. In chorale during my sophomore year, the group was working on a song called Besame Mucho , a Spanish song that exudes sensuality and needed to be performed with "suave." As a whole, however, the chorale lacked that piece of sophistication and what musicians like to call "rhythm." Mr. Youngman, being the inventive man that he is, tried every possible way to get the group to understand the rhythm of the piece and to sing with flair. He stood on chairs, clapped out the beat and pounded it into our heads until we were speaking Spanish outside of our practice room. We thought we were hopeless. Unfortunately, our concert was fast approaching and the Jazz Band had planned to accompany us on Besame Mucho. How on earth would we be able to acquire rhythm in just a few days?!

Because we could still not grasp the idea of syncopation, Mr Youngman led us into the band room to listen to the band play the song without vocals. After they exemplified the concept of rhythm, we sang the piece with them. Still an atrocity. Possibly fed up, possibly crazy, Mr. Youngman stood up in front of the collected group and all eyes fixed on him. He began to free-style rap the importance of rhythm in a song such as Besame. As his rap continued, the Jazz Band began to back him up with their own improvisational skills on the bass guitar and drums. His rap lasted a solid three and half minutes until we realized that maybe we should concentrate a bit harder to achieve the sound he wanted to hear from us. Everyone was amazed at the latent rap ability Mr. Youngman had been hiding. Today in chorale, if we screw up the rhythm of a song, I remember that episode and chuckle to myself.

-- Katie Doherty

When I think of memories, I think of something that really sticks out in my mind. I think of something that had a powerful and bold impact on a lot of people. I am thinking of the Stoneham High School Jazz Ensemble's performance of Red Hot Chili Pepper's "Breaking the Girl" at Carnival Ball 2000. It was a touching and beautiful moment in my life because I got to share my musical emotions with not only my fellow musicians, but also with a large variety of other people. Its impact was also strong enough to make a flattering headline in the Stoneham Independent the next week. It was truly a memorable moment for me.

-- Brian Berman



It's 9:00 AM on a brisk fall morning. A group of us seniors are off to go apple picking. Although the drive to the place was long and tiring, when we arrived we were ready to have fun and cause mischief. After walking around for a while and surveying the apples, we decided to have an apple war. After a few cuts and a lot of broken apples, a man with a mullet ran out, yelling at us and calling us "girls". We replied, "there's nothing wrong with that!" This mullet man was persistant and mad, so we decided to leave the place.

On the drive home, the car I was riding in was pulled over by a state trooper. This state trooper was very agitated; he was so agitated that he had my friend's car towed. Luckily, a friend had waited for us with his car up ahead. Too bad 300 feet later his car ran out of gas. We waited on the side of the road for 45 minutes while people drove by, all of whom did not stop to help. Eventually we made it home, and you know what? The apples weren't that great. I hate apple picking. Next time I want apples, I'm going to Stop & Shop.

-- Frank Woods

Three hours every other day we've created a special bond,
Cooking, cleaning, and taking tests in foods, yummies and beyond,
Without communication we've tried to count to ten,
None of us will ever forget Ms. Parks and her special pen.
Specially named staff shirts were made for "Park's Place"
The teachers all came for lunch and we watched them fill their face.
We've grown like a family at our class Thanksgiving dinner,
All the food was good, but it didn't make us thinner.
In the midst of all the memories and laughter we've experienced here
We all enjoyed Culinary Arts and it made our senior year.
